

Bryan Hujsak is the Director of Vestibular Rehabilitation at the Ear Institute's Center for Hearing and Balance Disorders. Mr. Hujsak received his Masters of Science in Physical Therapy from Boston University in 1998. Following graduation, he was a Staff Physical Therapist and then Senior Physical Therapist at NYU Langone Medical Center's Rusk Institute of Rehabilitation. Beginning in 2000, he has worked with patients with vestibular dysfunction, balance disorders, acquired brain injury, and movement disorders. He received his competency in Vestibular Rehabilitation from Emory University School of Medicine in 2002. In 2007, he was board certified in neurological rehabilitation by the American Board of Physical Therapy Specialties. He received his Doctorate in Physical Therapy from Stony Brook University in 2010. In addition to his clinical work, he is directly involved in the training and education of staff, physical therapy students, rehabilitation medicine residents, otolaryngology residents, and neuro-optometry residents.