- The Andrew Heiskell Braille and Talking Book Library lends talking books and books in Braille to borrowers who are eligible to receive them according to the terms of the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (NLS), a division of the Library of Congress.
- A person is eligible if resident in New York City or Long Island, and if he or she has difficulty reading standard printed materials because of: blindness; a visual impairment; a physical disability that limits the ability to hold a book or turn pages; or a reading disability resulting from organic dysfunction.
- Talking books are available in cassette and digital formats and require special playback machines. The Library provides digital and cassette players without charge..
- Talking books, talking book players, and Braille books can be requested by mail, by telephone, by email, through the library's online catalog, or in person, and can be sent and returned through the mail without cost to the borrower
- To qualify for service a patron has to complete an application, available at the Andrew Heiskell Library, any other public library in New York City, or from the Andrew Heiskell Library website at www.talkingbooks.nypl.org.
- The application must be certified by a competent authority such as a professional in health care, education, or rehabilitation. Librarians may certify an applicant except for reading or learning disabilities¹. Family members may not certify applicants. Applicants with reading or learning disabilities must be certified by a medical doctor or doctor of osteopathy. All applications must be sent to the library with the original signature of the certifier; copies or faxes do not meet the Federal requirements of the program.
- The library hosts programs and activities that appeal to people with visual impairments.
- The library offers adaptive technology that allows people with visual impairments to use computers and access the internet. We offer classes in how to use this equipment.
- The library's audio book studio produces 40 to 50 talking books per year to supplement the collection of National Library Service titles.
- The Andrew Heiskell Braille and Talking Book Library is part of the New York Public Library, which operates it under the guidelines of the National Library Service. Its operation is funded by the State of New York, the City of New York, and the federal government. The National Library Service provides most Braille and talking book materials.

Blindline® is an information and referral service for people who are blind or visually impaired, their family members, friends, and professional service providers

Our ever-growing database currently comprises more than 750 records of specialized resources located throughout New York State. The database contains a comprehensive list of blindness-related agencies, as well as many commercial businesses that provide accessible services and/or products to people with vision loss. As a "work in progress," we encourage consumers to let us know about businesses, products, or services that should be included in the database, or to comment on any of the products and services we currently catalogue.

Blindline® consists of both the web site and a telephone hotline staffed by trained individuals who are themselves visually impaired. If you are unable to find what you are looking for on the web site, please phone us toll-free, Monday through Friday from 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM, at (888) 625-1616. Our trained Information Specialists will conduct additional research on any blindness-related topic, and return the results to you in the format of your choice (braille, large-print, via e-mail or phone).

VISIONS Partners and Corporate Funders

Blindline® (web site, call center and vocational training program) is an ongoing project of VISIONS/Services for the Blind and Visually Impaired. VISIONS acknowledges the many non-profit partners and corporate funders who support the project.

The American Foundation for the Blind (AFB) has been invaluable to the project, by sharing information from its Directory of Services, and by providing technical expertise in creating both the web site and database.

The National Federation of the Blind (NFB) and the American Council of the Blind (ACB) have strongly supported the project from the start.

As the primary source of financial support, the Lavelle Fund for the Blind awarded VISIONS a major grant in support of Blindline®.

American Express responded with a grant for the cost of seven toll-free phone lines and marketing efforts.

IBM graciously donated seven state-of-the-art computer workstations and a printer, to get the call center up-and-running.

An exceptional Advisory Board of blindness professionals, consumers, technology and I&R experts assists our staff in expanding and strengthening the project, and planning for growth.

Blindline® Headquarters

Located at VISIONS main administrative office in Lower Manhattan (500 Greenwich Street), the call center is well-appointed and spacious. Employers, potential trainees, educators, and/or technical consultants are welcome to tour the center during normal business hours. Please phone or e-mail us to arrange a visit, to learn more about our training program, or to volunteer:

The Blindline® project is just one of many ways in which VISIONS manifests its mission to promote the independence of people of all ages who are blind and visually impaired. VISIONS programs include rehabilitation services, therapeutic recreation for individuals and families at Vacation Camp for the Blind in Rockland County, NY, and a community center for blind adults and seniors at Selis Manor on West 23rd Street in Manhattan.

Computer Center for Visually Impaired People (CCVIP)

Expanding Technological Access for Greater New York's Vision Loss Community

Who We Are

Since 1978, CCVIP, conveniently based at Baruch College in New York City's Gramercy Park neighborhood, has been in the business of empowering people through access to Assistive computer technology

We accomplish this through training, applied research, product testing and development, and community awareness initiatives.

What We Offer

Courses and seminars

Contact Judith Gerber, 646-312-1420

Designed to meet students' changing needs and to keep pace with advances in software and Assistive technology. People can be introduced to the computer and learn to type, master the basics of e-mail, Internet, word processing, and data management, explore what social networking is all about and acquire the skills that will assure success in the ever-expanding world of portable digital information and entertainment devices.

Learning Lab--Contact Judith Gerber, 646-312-1420

Where independent computer users and current CCVIP students can practice on Assistive technological systems under expert supervision.

Computer Skills Check-Ups--Contact Judith Gerber, 646-312-1420

Designed for job hunters and prospective college students, these assessments were specially developed by CCVIP to determine user strengths and weaknesses and help our advisors to identify further training needs and make placement recommendations.

Demonstration Center and bimonthly Tech Demos--Contact Gus Chalkias, 646 312-1422

Provide potential users opportunities to experience new devices from a variety of vendors before making a personal investment in Assistive equipment. Recent sessions—delivered on site and online—have reviewed magnification devices, Apple's I products, color and object identifiers, accessible book readers and GPS devices.

SERVICES FOR AREA BUSINESSES & ORGANIZATIONS

BRaille PRODUCTION--Contact Judith Gerber, 646-312-1420

CCVIP's Braille production service is fast and affordable. Our basic rate for literary Braille is $1.50 per page for documents submitted in electronic text format with at least 24 hours notice. Our rush orders rate is $2.00 per Braille page. Price exclude shipping or special formatting. Volume discounts are available.

SCRIPTING SERVICES--Contact Karen Gourgey, 646-312-1426

CCVIP now programs custom scripts for JAWS® screen reading software, its companion screen magnification program, MAGic® and the screen reader program Window-Eyes® to insure that you and your employer get the maximum accessibility possible from your software.

WEB USABILITY TESTING--Contact Bill Reed, 646-312-1420

CCVIP tests the degree to which web sites are useable by blind and visually impaired computer users for businesses and nonprofits. We offer feedback and suggest what must be done to make specific sites and screens accessible.

FREE EVENTS

Monthly Open Houses--Register with Madelyn Guilbeault, 646-312-1420

Conducted by CCVIP faculty to introduce the public to our courses and the latest in Assistive technology.

Annual Conference on Employment and Visual Impairment: Policy and Practice

Held in conjunction with the Baruch College School of Public Affairs usually in April. Check www.baruch.cuny.edu/ccvip for announcement and registration invitation—or join our mailing list and be kept up-to-date about all CCVIP activities.

Low Vision Eye Service

- Staffed by NYS Certified Low Vision doctors
- Serve New York City, Nassau and Suffolk Counties
- Patients are seen by a doctor for both eye health evaluations and vision rehabilitation
- Optical aids may be prescribed which include magnifiers, telescopes, spectacles, and electronic vision aids such as desktop video magnifiers
- Training in the use of the aids and the patient's residual vision is of great importance to gain optimum use of remaining vision. This service is one part of the overall care available to someone with vision impairment as we assist the patient with daily living training and the psychological adjustment to sight reduction too.
- An affiliated program of the Low Vision Eye Service is our Preschool Vision Screening Program where approximately 30,000 children are screened per year for vision limitations.
- In Richmond County, we are a member of the Staten Island Inter-Agency Council with access to a wide range of services and resources for seniors including partnerships with local ophthalmologists.
- For more information please contact Bill Dale at 516-485-1234, extension 607 or visit our website at www.helenkeller.org.

Lighthouse International services for people with vision loss include:

- Low Vision Care: specialized eye exams by low vision doctors evaluate a person's remaining vision and overall visual functioning to help make best use of existing vision – often with the prescription of optical devices along with instruction in how to use them effectively.
- Psychosocial Services: emotional support to help people – and their families – cope with vision loss at any stage of life.
- Occupational Therapy: training to help people utilize other senses and residual vision to improve functioning.
- Vision Rehabilitation Therapy: introduction of safe, new ways to manage household tasks such as cooking, personal grooming, and to manage medications and finances;
- Orientation & Mobility: training that helps people travel safely, take public transportation on their own, and prevent falls and injuries.
- Career Services: programs to enable people with vision loss to prepare for, obtain or retain a job; also match employers with qualified candidates.
- Children's Services: including the early intervention program, which helps infants born with vision loss reach important developmental milestones. The integrated Lighthouse preschool welcomes children who are sighted and visually impaired for an enriched educational experience for all.
- Youth Services: programs enable teens with vision loss to build confidence and independent living skills to achieve success in school and, ultimately, in the working world.
- The Filomen M. D'Agostino Greenberg Music School: offerings that encourage people of all ages to pursue their interest in, and study of, music through lessons in voice and a broad range of instruments, along with Braille and assistive music technology.
- Print Access Center: conversion of printed materials needed for academic, personal or professional use into accessible formats; Braille transcription, reading and recording services.
- The Center for Education: online training for professionals and paraprofessionals in low vision care and vision rehabilitation.
- The Arlene R. Gordon Research Institute: advancing knowledge of how people who are visually impaired function in everyday life.
- The Lighthouse Store: featuring a wide selection of lighting, magnification and talking products that make living with vision loss more manageable.

Lighthouse International provides services for residents throughout the greater New York area wherever they are needed – in the home, on-site at our Manhattan headquarters and White Plains office, at work or in the community.

The Museum of Modern Art is committed to enabling all visitors to experience its unparalleled collection of modern art. We recognize the diversity of our general public's abilities and needs and offer a variety of programs and services to ensure the accessibility of the Museum and its collections. We hope to provide the most inclusive environment for every Museum visitor.

Programs and Services for Blind and Partially Sighted Visitors

For a complete schedule of dates and program topics, please visit <http://www.moma.org/learn/disabilities/sight>.

Art inSight

This program for blind and partially sighted adults is held monthly in the Museum galleries. Specially trained Museum lecturers highlight specific themes, artists, and exhibitions, engaging participants through extensive verbal descriptions.

Touch Tours

Blind and partially sighted visitors experience a selection of sculptures and design objects from the collection. These tours take place in the Museum's galleries and Sculpture Garden and are available to individuals or groups by appointment. To schedule a touch tour, please call 212-708-9685 or visit <http://www.moma.org/visit/plan/groups/accessform>.

MoMAudio: Visual Descriptions

(English only) An audio program for blind and partially sighted visitors as well as the general public is available free of charge inside the Museum at the audio program desks. Developed with Acoustiguide in consultation with an advisory board of people with sight loss, this audio program provides vivid and detailed descriptions of key works from the Museum's collection. Expert commentary, musical accompaniment, and historical perspective enhance the experience. Transcripts of this and all Museum audio programs are available in regular and large print upon request.

Tactile diagrams of numerous works from the Museum's collection are available for loan at no charge for classroom use.

The information plan and select special-exhibition brochures are available in large print and Braille from the lobby information desk.

Detailed information about all Access Programs can be found on our website at <http://moma.org/learn/programs/access> or by calling Access Programs at 212-408-6347.

www.nyise.org

The New York Institute for Special Education (NYISE) supports four quality programs for children who are blind or visually disabled, emotionally and learning disabled and preschoolers who are developmentally delayed.

- The Schermerhorn Program recognizes our 179 year commitment to children who are blind and visually impaired. Many of these children, who range in age from 5 to 21 years, have a mild secondary disability and need a specialized educational environment in order to be successful in school. Students are placed in either the day or five day residential program.
- The children of the Van Cleve Program have emotional or learning difficulties. The highly structured educational day and residential component includes specialized services such as counseling for the students and their families. Our goal is to reduce the behavioral and learning deficits of students by providing academic and social skills necessary to enter less restrictive programs.
- The Readiness Program is a pre-school that helps children who are developmentally delayed from ages 3 to 5. They have disabilities that include speech impairment, mild orthopedic impairment, a learning or emotional disability. By providing specialized instruction, intensive therapies and early intervention many are able to be mainstreamed or are placed in a least restrictive educational environment when they reach the age of five.

As the only Summer Camp program in New York City for children that are blind or visually impaired, Camp Wanaqua is truly a unique offering of NYISE. Totally dependant on private support the camp provides children with classes, field trips, and activities that focus on the development of critical life skills. Applications are accepted each Spring. Please contact Anthony George, the Camp Director at (718) 519-7000 x356 or email your request to ageorge@nyise.org

RUBIN MUSEUM OF ART

150 West 17th Street, NYC 10011
212.620.5000 RMANyc.org

Verbal Description and Touch Tours at Rubin Museum of Art:

The Rubin Museum of Art, a cultural and educational institution dedicated to the art of the Himalayas, is now offering Verbal Description and Touch Tours for audiences who are partially sighted and blind. Free with museum admission, tours are one-hour in length and take visitors on a journey that interweaves the arts, history, religion, and culture of the Himalayas.

The Rubin Museum guides have been trained to offer audiences who are partially sighted and blind multiple points of access into Himalayan art. Guides provide participants with close, careful descriptions of images and sculpture, helping them to form visualizations of the pieces. Participants are then invited to touch objects, including sculpture, art materials, wood blocks, and ritual implements. Visitors also experience some of the sacred sounds and smells of the Himalayas through incense and traditional music.

TOURS are offered on the 2nd Thursday of every month at 2:00 pm. Please schedule two weeks in advance by contacting the Group Visits Office by phone, 212.620.5000 Ext. 345, or by email at reservations@rmanyc.org. Special individual tours may also be arranged. Admission to the museum is waived for tour participants, making the experience completely FREE.

Himalayan art is known for its rich iconography and vibrant artistic tradition. Visitors who are partially sighted and blind will not only be exposed to the rich visual culture, but will also begin to understand what lies beneath: art that expresses the concept of the enlightened mind, the personification of wisdom, compassion, protection and loving kindness, the concept of cyclical existence, and so much more.

The Rubin Museum is located at 150 West 17th Street, New York, NY 10011 (between 6th and 7th Avenues).

The Rubin Museum is open Monday 11 am to 5 pm, Wednesday 11 am to 7 pm, Thursday 11 am to 5 pm, Friday 11 am to 10 pm, Saturday and Sunday from 11 am to 6 pm; closed on Tuesday.

VISIONS Offers FREE Innovative Programs for People of All Ages with Vision Loss

Founded in 1926, VISIONS serves over 5000 individuals each year. The agency is driven by its mission to promote the independence of people of all ages who are blind or visually impaired and to educate the public about the needs and abilities of people who are blind.

- Individuals are eligible for VISIONS services if they experience vision loss that interferes with daily tasks or independent functioning at home, school, work or in the community. VISIONS services are provided free of charge (no co-pays, no billing of Medicaid or Medicare). Services are funded through VISIONS unrestricted income, foundation, corporate and government grants, and individual donations. VISIONS consumers are primarily people of low income, frail elders, non-English speakers, living in communities of culturally diverse consumers where vision loss is more prevalent, as well as people with multiple disabilities. Services are offered in 17 languages utilizing multi-lingual staff and interpreters.
- VISIONS offers free presentations on vision loss, organizing community events including educational forums and creating local advisory boards.

Vision rehabilitation training is provided according to an individualized plan based on the consumer's expressed needs and level of ability. Instruction is tailored to meet specific goals such as meeting a school bus, family care giving, or gaining "soft skills" to become more employable.

- Vision rehabilitation therapy provides training by certified professional specialists in adaptive living skills to help consumers of all ages to carry out their daily activities with confidence and independence.
- Orientation & mobility training by certified professional specialists teaches consumers how to navigate safely at home, in school and college, in their neighborhoods, and throughout New York City.
- Occupational therapy by licensed professionals addresses visual and physical impairment needs of blind and low vision individuals with additional disabilities.
- Low vision enables people with vision loss to use their residual vision efficiently and effectively through refraction and the use of prescribed optical aids.
- Adaptive aids such as a prescribed long cane, talking watch or large print calendar enable individuals to manage their household, attend school, hold a job, and travel safely and independently and are supplied free of charge as part of a rehabilitation plan.
- Licensed social workers counsel consumers adjusting to deteriorating vision or blindness.

Other programs include:

Blindline[®], a database of services in New York State and resources for people who are blind or low vision:

- Provides information by phone 1-212-625-3301 or 1-888-625-1616 and an accessible web site www.blindline.org.
- Serves as a vocational training and job internship placement for blind adults and seniors, from Westchester, NYC and Long Island who can travel to Manhattan, to learn help desk, information and referral and customer services skills.

Employment services for New York City residents & Technology programs for consumers without geographic restriction:

- Technology training in the use of adapted software is provided in the Computer Center at VISIONS at Selis Manor, at VISIONS/VCB, and the Blindline® program.
- Employment and Technology Institutes (held at VISIONS/VCB) offer employment-related seminars, hands-on workshops, resume writing and interviewing clinics, and demonstrations of the latest adaptive technology for youth and adults who are blind or low vision.
- Workforce Development Office at VISIONS at Selis Manor offers individual assistance with job searches and job placement for blind youth, adults and seniors.
- Youth Employment Coordinator assists high school and college youth who are blind or low vision with finding paid internships after school or during the summer.

VISIONS at Selis Manor is a community center program, located in housing for low-income people who are blind on West 23rd Street in Manhattan. Services include:

- Social services, benefits assistance and individual and group counseling to adjust to and cope with vision loss.
- Individual and group vision rehabilitation training including learning Braille.
- Employment services including computer technology training and job placement.
- Youth services including after school and summer programs for blind or visually impaired high school students.
- Senior services including Senior Speak Out, a weekly seminar on Monday that includes speakers on topics of interest, a hot dinner meal and peer networking
- Wide variety of adapted classes including photography, fitness, yoga, bowling, ceramics, quilting, computers, Braille, etc.
- Volunteer readers and shoppers.

VISIONS Center on Blindness (VCB), a 35-acre year-round adapted temporary residential training center in Rockland County, New York, offers:

- Vision rehabilitation training including orientation & mobility and rehab classes.
- Services for populations with special needs (families with blind and/or multi-disabled babies, pre-school or school age children; frail seniors; grandparent caregivers of blind children).
- Employment and Technology Institutes throughout the year for youth and adults.

VISIONS Intergenerational and Caregiver Support programs enable seniors with vision loss to live at home as independently as possible with help from trained paid high school students and respite for unpaid caregivers (family, partners, companions, friends).
